[The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review.]

WALL, STREET'S little lambs felt the chill of winter Wednesday. Benevolent managers of high finance, to save little people from "foolish gambling" when it is too late, raised "call money" to 12 per cent.

If foolish gambling by the public allows banks and the Federal Reserve to go too far in the direction of criminal usury, there may be quite a smash.

MR. MELLON, who knows about money, ought to look into that and probably will. Promoted clerks in the Federal Reserve men well, and are glad to give the banks a chance to make a little dishonest money. But there is such a thing as going too far.

PHYSICIANS watching bulletins issued by King George's doctors find it difficult to say exactly what they mean. Royal doctors must be as optimistic as they dare to help Britain's Christmas trade, at the same time protecting their own reputations.

Unfortunately, the most accurate diagnosis probably is that of insurance companies that now refuse to insure the king's life, even at 50 per cent for three weeks.

"INFECTION in the lungs" is the trouble. The thin wall that separates the king's lungs from doctors watching him is a more effective barrier than the great wall of China.

At the Rockefeller Institute in New York, Dr. Carrel opens the lung cavity of a dog, removes a piece of lung tissue, theoretically diseased, and an hour later the dog is as well as ever.

Ordinarily, atmospheric pressure would cause collapse of the lung and death at opening of the lung cavity. Carrel's assistants pump air into the windpipe at a pressure equal to atmospheric pressure. The dog doesn't suffer, by the way, feels nothing.

But you can't experiment on a king.

SCIENTISTS study fishes that live 5 miles below the ocean surface. Bring them to the top, removing water pressure, and they burst and die.

Human beings live at the bottom of an atmospheric ocean, 500 miles deep. If you took us to the top we probably should burst, and we should die surely. Man cannot live 10 miles up, to say nothing of 500 miles.

WE PITY the poor, submerged deep sea fish, leading such dull lives. They would pity the submerged poor among human beings.

Science says all of earth's life was once in the ocean. Some animals climbed on the land, developed lungs in place of the fish's bladder, ears in place of gills. Men were included in that migration to land. Other animals, even more ambitious, learned to fly—the birds.

MYSTERY GIRL KILLER COVERS TRACKS AFTER FLEEING WACO

Stark County Authorities Baffled by Coal Dealers Death.

FIND NO CLUES

Vernard Fearn, 35, Victim, Leaves Widow and Daughter.

CANTON, O., Dec. 8.—The beautiful young woman who called Vernard Fearn, 35, to the door of his home at Waco, near here, Thursday night, and shot him to death, today has vanished as mysteriously as she appeared.

The sheriff's office and police admitted they had no real clues to her identity or the motive for the killing. Fearn, a well-to-do coal dealer, is survived by his widow, Mary, and a daughter, Kathryn, 9. He was happily married and had no enemies in the community, according to residents of the village of Waco.

Thursday night a young woman, about 22 years old, dressed in a black fur coat, turban hat and white silk stockings, boarded a 6 o'clock bus from Canton, dismounting at the Rite-of-Way inn in Waco, about 300 yards from the Fearn home. She said she would take the next return bus to Canton.

Slain Man in Doorway.

Mrs. Fearn answered her knock and asked for Mr. Fearn. Mrs. Fearn invited her to come into the house but she declined. Fearn, summoned from the interior of the house, went to the front porch and the young woman, without a word, pumped a half-dozen .32 calibre bullets from an automatic into his body.

The mortally wounded man fell but regained his feet and staggered into the house. Before dying in the arms of his wife he told her that he had never seen the girl before.

The murderers caught the return bus to Canton a few minutes later, arriving here before an alarm had been spread. George Patterson, the bus driver, says he inquired about bus connections to Lorain, Ohio, but this is regarded as an attempt to throw police off the trail.

Described as "a Beauty."

Mrs. Fearn revealed that the girl appeared twice at the Fearn home Wednesday night. She asked for Fearn on both occasions but he was not at home that night. Bus drivers and passengers remembered seeing her on her trips to and from Canton Wednesday and Thursday nights and all described her as "a beauty."

Police learned that a young woman, of her description, disappeared from a rooming house here Wednesday. They found two suitcases of woman's finery in the room. The woman, who said she was from West Virginia, did not return to her room Wednesday night, according to the proprietress.

DR. H. Z. SILVER SHOT DOWN IN EATON BEFORE WIFE IS SLAIN

Detective Ora Slater Called to Investigate Double Murder.

SLAYERS ESCAPE

Woman Murdered as Her Husband Jumps From Bed.

EATON, O., Dec. 8.—Dr. H. Z. Silver, 55, died shortly before 11 o'clock in a Dayton hospital from bullet wounds inflicted by burglars in his home here early this morning. The doctor's wife, Mrs. Lora Silver, 58, was instantly killed by the same thugs.

Call Fingerprint Expert.
Dr. Silver underwent an operation for the removal of the two bullets lodged in his chest and abdomen. He failed to rally.

Detective Ora Slater, famed Cincinnati sleuth, arrived here to take up the case shortly before noon. A hurry call was sent to Dayton police for a fingerprint expert by Sheriff Leo Davidson, who believes he had found a real clue. Harry Seiford, fingerprint man of the Dayton police, was reported enroute here at noon.

According to information so far gathered by Sheriff Davidson, Mrs. Silver was awakened by a flashlight playing in her face as she and her husband reposed in bed at 4:30 this morning. She screamed, arousing Dr. Silver who leaped from the bed and started for the intruder.

Two shots rang out and Dr. Silver slumped to the floor with wounds just below the heart and in the stomach. The intruder next turned the gun on Mrs. Silver.

Two Persons Implicated.
Indications that at least two persons were implicated in the shooting was revealed after a first preliminary search of the grounds about the Silver home. Police found cartridges from different caliber guns lying on the ground outside the window of the bedroom where the shooting occurred.

Neighbors were aroused by the shooting and called police. No trace of the intruder or intruders were found, nor was there any way of checking the possible loot taken from the home.

Police and county officials immediately organized a man-hunt to scour the vicinity.

Dr. Silver was a cousin of Harry Silver, who managed Governor-elect Myers Y. Cooper's campaign.

Sheriff Davidson said one of the cartridge shells was ejected from a .38 calibre pistol while the other came from a .32 calibre gun. Whether there were two men, each with one gun, or whether one man used both weapons has not been determined, the sheriff said.

Dr. Silver was not alarmed when he first was awakened, believing the flashlight to be in the hands of his 13-year-old daughter.

Blinded by the powerful rays of the flashlight, he started to rouse himself from the bed when, he told the sheriff, a menacing voice called "Stay where you are; don't come any farther."

Disregarding the command, the physician leaped from the bed and was immediately shot down. His wife, screaming for mercy, fell a victim to slugs from the killing.

No motive for the killing, other than that the men feared an outcry while robbing the residence, has as yet been advanced.

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 8.—Three armed men today held up the Linden Heights branch of the First Citizens Trust company here and escaped with between $6,000 and $7,000 in notes of small denomination. They escaped in a highpowered touring car.

The bank had been opened for business shortly before the trio made their appearance. The bank employees were herded behind a grilled cage, and the vault and teller's cages looted.

Police were on the scene a few minutes after the robbery, but were unable to trace the bandit car.

SUNDAY TO DELIVER THREE SERMONS TOMORROW

The consummate actor, the appealing raconteur, the active athlete, the consistent reasoner, Evangelist Billy Sunday last night spoke on the theme, "Immortality," at the Second and Washington streets tabernacle.

This afternoon, he delivered a sermon on "Paul." Tonight he will speak to women only at the tabernacle, while the men and boys of the revival area will be listening to Homer Rodeheaver, Robert Matthews and Albert Peterson of the evangelistic party at the First Presbyterian church.

Tomorrow, in three services at the tabernacle he will continue his fight for righteousness by preaching to everybody in the morning and the evening and to men only at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon. The other hours of assemblage will be 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

A fourth Sunday meeting will be held in the First Presbyterian church in the afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. With Mrs. Sunday present, women and girls will be addressed by Miss Florence Kinney on "Mothers and Daughters."

Services for Men and Women.

With the two services for women and men in separate places tonight the fifth week of the present series of meetings will be concluded, on Sunday, the sixth and final one of the campaign will begin.

That crowds will be in attendance at all services on Sunday is certain. In the five that have preceded, people have come to East Liverpool from several states, while practically all cities and places marked by points at Pittsburgh, Cleveland and Columbus, Ohio, and Wheeling, W. Va., have sent quotas to hear the evangelist.

There was a large throng present at the afternoon service yesterday when Mr. Sunday discussed "The Prophet Jonah." "Would that every church member, and especially officials in them, could have heard that discourse," was heard on every side. "I wonder why he does not preach that in the evenings or on a Sunday morning," was another observation.

The same service last night was opened with a number of spirituals which the choir and Rodeheaver, the director, sang. With Matthews, the pianist, accompanying him, Rodeheaver sang as a solo, "Ain't Gonna Be War No More," and then: "When They Ring the Golden Bells for You and Me." The choir, with Miss Kinney also accompanying, sang appealingly "I Know in Whom I Have Believed" and "Sail On."

In the afternoon preliminary services, Rodeheaver sang, by request, "I Am Coming Home."

The invocations of the day were made by the Rev. L. J. Davidson, of the First United Presbyterian church of East Liverpool, and the Rev. L. A. Britton, of the Christian church of Chester, W. Va.

George Dibble to Sing.

For the campaign committee, the Rev. W. O. Hawkins, D. D., pastor of the First Methodist church, made a witness announcement last night of which he thanked all those who aided in underwriting of the expenses.

Reference was again made by Rodeheaver to the need of old clothing by the Salvation Army and for discarded sheets, towels and old clothes to forward as bandages to the leper hospital in Korea.

Announcement was also made of the coming to East Liverpool for a visit at the revival tonight of Mr. and Mrs. George Dibble, of Bloomington, Mich.

"Mr. Dibble is one of the greatest tenors on or off the stage," asserted Rodeheaver. "They have long been engaged in mission work. The pair stand out by reason of the unusual fact that he is the singer and Mrs. Dibble the preacher of their little party. They have a few days off just now and will stop in East Liverpool while making another point."

That Dibble would sing at the men's meeting in the First Presbyterian church tonight was promised by Rodeheaver. "And maybe, he will sing to women here at the tabernacle before he goes to the church," Mr. Sunday chimed in.

Rodeheaver Born in Ohio.

Women members of the choir will occupy their usual seats at tonight's meeting for the women. The singing this will be in charge of Miss Kinney.

Homer Rodeheaver, the musical director and soloist of the evangelistic party, was disclosed as Ohio-born last night by Mr. Sunday who asked him the place of his birth during some remarks after a delegation last night headed by their pastor, the Rev. John Wisman. Their appearance caused Rodeheaver to remember his boyhood days in the Tennessee mountains. "It was in a little Edworth league society of the Methodist church there made of logs that I did my first public work," he said.

"I owe it much for the privilege of doing the immature things that then gave me the start for doing what I may have been able to do in the years that have followed."

Mr. Sunday before the sermon last night urged that women and girls attend the meeting for women only to night and men and boys go to the First Presbyterian church and particularly that women and their daughters be in attendance Sunday afternoon at the service which Miss Kinney will address at the First Presbyterian church.

Denounces Fiction.

Asserting that Jonah had brought about the conversion of all on the ship from which he was thrown into the sea only to be caught by a whale and later rescued, Mr. Sunday in the afternoon denounced in scathing language the lack of strong preaching in many pulpits these days. "No man is fit to stand in a pulpit of God's church who does not believe the word of God," he said. "There is no middle ground between fundamentalism and modernism. A man can not be alive and dead at the same time. Those who do not believe in what the churches were erected for should take their dirty carcasses and get out."

In the evening he denounced fiction. "I do not read novels of any kind. I do not like them. There is plenty of truth to read without bothering with such drivel as the average sex novel now discloses." He gave a vivid description of women going to bed and reading such volumes and being satisfied with what they find therein while being practically ignorant of anything in the Bible.

"I will not admit that any one knows more than I do who does not show that he has a healthy acquaintance with the Book of Books," he shouted. "How can one be a Christian unless he starts doing what the Bible says? If any one will do that and continue its teachings they will become what the book says they will — one loyal to Jesus Christ and a believer in Him as their Saviour."

Too Many Jonahs in Churches.

Church members who sleep like Jonah did when all else were awake during the storm encountered by the ship he was on were singled out by him in the afternoon. "And you find such everywhere, even in East Liverpool," he said. "Why there are some of them here who have not been in this tabernacle but once or twice and who show no concern whatever in souls about them and the opportunity which this meeting carries to bring them into God's fold — the very work of which they are supposed to be the leaders in their churches. You always find men in churches with money who attempt to run them and who have little or no spiritual qualifications for doing so. Why, Jonah snored in that storm just like a backslider in a prayer meeting! Many churches would be strong if they would but unload themselves of their Jonahs. It is often not so much the need of the church to add new members as first to make new members out of the old ones which are in it by having them genuinely converted and born again. It was Dr. Beecher who once said when asked if he had had a fine meeting replied, 'yes, we got rid of 42 members.' Dead limbs on trees bear no fruit and because there are so many in churches is the reason that many of them have gone wrong in thinking and become lethargic in action."

In the evening he stressed again the same viewpoint, asserting that he had a controversy with most churches because they had left their discipline slits to a large degree. Members remain in a backslidden state with little or nothing done or said to them regarding their changed action which is in marked contrast to that which they have agreed as their standard when they become allied with them.

And he said there were hypocrites in all organizations but that did not mean that the organizations themselves were without merit. Where there are hypocrites it should be the duty of everyone to get in and assist in doing away with them.

Immortality, he said, was such a strong instinct in everyone as to prove the fact of a future existence. "The progress of civilization rest upon this belief. If belief did not exist in immortality what incentive would there be for men to do anything that makes for an upward development?"

Refers to Political Campaign.

Men has a soul, its chief faculties being the power of faith, moral standards and conscience. He can reason, has judgment, imagination and memory while using the five faculties of the body: seeing, feeling, tasting, hearing and smelling. Animals can remember, but they do not have faith in something they have never seen; they likewise have no moral sensibilities nor consciences. "But conscience," he averred, "was not a safe guide unless it was bulwarked by the words of God from the Bible. Your conscience will admit of your doing wrong when not knowing the departure is inimical to the character of God unless you get acquainted with Him by means of His inspired book."

"And faith will not come to you if you do not exercise it any more than your body will develop without physical exertion. If you begin to do God's will as revealed in the Bible you will come to know Him and all doubts will be dispelled as to the future existence."

How many preachers are warned not to go too strong in their preaching was noted by Mr. Sunday last night.

"I have been told to be careful," he confided. "It was during the last political campaign when it was feared to injure the feelings of some Democrats. 'And if I had been a Democrat I would have been man enough to repudiate the party on that occasion,' he thundered. 'If Al Smith had been dry and Herbert Hoover wet I should have voted for Al Smith.'"

"If both Hoover and Smith had been wet I should have run for president myself on a dry ticket."

Incidentally there has been in attendance at the revival during the past several days a gentleman named Al Smith of Pittsburgh. He is an ardent Bible student and an elder in one of the Presbyterian churches of that city.

He has been a regular attendant at the Bible class taught by Miss Kinney each afternoon and yesterday assisted her by reading sections of the Old Testament confirming facts noted in the New Testament.

Awards $400 Damages In Salineville Case

Judge Lones Rules in Gilson-Burns Claim Against County Over Change in Road Grade.

SALINEVILLE, O., Dec. 8.—The Columbiana county commissioners will pay $400 to John F. Gilson, Roland G. and Rebecca Gilson, and Erma Burns in settlement of a $2,000 damage case growing out of a change of grade on the Ironton-Salineville road in 1921, as a result of a judgment entered at Lisbon yesterday by Judge W. F. Lones.

The plaintiffs claimed storm water damaged their properties.

The case had been pending since 1925.

Injunction Application Denied. Common pleas Judge W. F. Lones yesterday refused an application for a temporary injunction, restraining E. J. and George Allison, Cleveland, from mining or selling coal at the mines operated by them since September on the J. W. Blevins farm in West township.

Blevins filed action several days ago against the Allison, claiming that they had violated their contract by not paying royalty on coal mined and sold. He asked judgment for royalties due him, and also sought an accounting for all coal mined and marketed.

Bank Wins $1,444.50 Suit. The Citizens' Banking company was given judgment at Lisbon yesterday against the village of Salineville for $1,444.50. The amount was due on a note.

Ask Judgment for $329.68. J. M. A. E. and Frank Hepps, doing business as Hepps & Company, of East Liverpool have filed an action for $329.68 in common pleas court against John Schnovell, who conducts a grocery and bakery here. The claim is based on an account for merchandise sold to the defendant.

ARREST MAN WHO 'KIDNAPED' WIFE

Gov. Vic Donahey today issued a requisition on the governor of Pennsylvania for the return to Steubenville of Pete and Christ Glinos, brothers, said to be under arrest at Donora, Pa.

The men are wanted at Steubenville on charges of kidnapping Themo Glinos, wife of Christ, whom the men are alleged to have taken from the home of her parents at Steubenville Nov. 27.

F. P. Dunkle, executive secretary to Gov. Donahey, who ordered the requisition on behalf of the governor, stated that under federal supreme court decisions a husband cannot legally kidnap his wife or child, but he pointed out that under a state law it is permissible to charge any person with kidnapping a "person" and under that law the requisition was issued.

Health Seals on Yule Mail

The National Tuberculosis association joins with the Ohio Public Health association and the City Federation of Women's Clubs in an appeal to the people of East Liverpool to co-operate in the Yuletide campaign to combat the spread of the white plague which annually exacts 160,000 lives.

Since 1900 more than 3,000,000 persons have died of "T. B." as tuberculosis is termed, but thanks to the educational movement which is financed through the sale of Christmas health seals the toll of human life is being reduced. This is especially true in Ohio and the East Liverpool district.

Through the city's share of funds provided by the messages of health and good cheer, part of the salary of the public health nurse is paid, while the rest is used to provide milk and eggs and sanatoria treatment for sufferers from the malady.

Gradually the plague is being brought under control, but it is not vanquished. Success has marked the fight so far but, as physicians and others interested in the movement point out, there must be no relaxing of efforts. Thus the need of funds to carry on.

Christmas health seals are now on sale at booths in stores, postoffice and theater lobbies. Seals on Christmas gifts mark the donor as one who loves his fellow men.

December

The home stretch for nineteen hundred twenty-eight is at hand. In December the sun enters the tropic of Capricorn, and passes the winter solstice. It is during the last of the twelve months of the present-day calendar that the sun reaches a point where it seems to stand still, apparently hesitating, before starting back. Thus it runs, year after year, while the workaday folk go merrily about their business, without time to marvel.

There really is no month in the calendar without a singular interest. As for December, those in this latitude expect it to bring winter, while nature enters restorative sleep and gathers strength for the resurrection to come later. But this twelfth month has a special human interest. It brings Christmas, the greatest of holidays.

At this season the mind and voice and heart of humankind become tuneless in inspired song, to "Hail the Kingdom of Bethlehem." December is essentially a child's month, with age becoming vibrant with the spirit that animates the soul with the sweetly simple things of life.

December is a month to which the wise will do their utmost to adapt themselves, whether it be rough or fair weather, in anticipation of the biggest day of the year.

Interest in South America

National interest in South America is heightened by the good will tour of President-elect Hoover.

The United States and South American countries always have manifested their friendship by their trade. In a recent year Argentina bought three-eighths of her imports from the United States; Brazil spent in the United States approximately one-half its expenditure for imports, and Chile gave the United States practically the same proportion of its foreign purchases. Colombia was an equally good customer in proportion to its total imports, while Peru gave the United States nearly two-thirds of its total foreign orders. More than two-thirds of Venezuela's foreign business was done with American houses, and in Ecuador the proportion was 45 per cent.

In its turn the United States bought more than half of the exports of Chile, Colombia, Peru and Venezuela, nearly half of those of Brazil, and nearly a third of those of Argentina.

To the geographer these figures, perhaps, tell more than a profitable business relationship. They betoken a mutual dependency based on mutual needs. It is a happy geographic fact that these two great continents, thrown, as they are, into close proximity, need each other and, in so many ways, complement each other.

Nature has been prodigal of its blessings to South America—blessings which, in some instances, are just being revealed. The continent has twice the area of Europe, yet its people number only about two-thirds the combined populations of France and Italy. People have plenty of elbow room in a continent of natural wonders, rich resources and progressive governments.

The Andes are the Alps of South America—only on a tremendously large scale, especially in contrast to classic Old World styles. So towering and so extensive are the Andes mountains that if all the highlands were plowed down and the lowlands filled up, the continent would be a plateau 1,312 feet above sea level, and 820 feet of this would be represented by the material which constitutes these mountains.

Stamp Collectors Unhappy

Stamp collectors made short work of 20,000 Molly Pitcher issue of two-cent stamps assigned to the Cleveland postoffice.

The new stamps are in carmine showing the head of Washington upon which the name, Molly Pitcher, has been surcharged in black ink.

The postoffice department issued 10,000,000 of the stamps, October 20, in commemoration of the 150th anniversary of the battle of Monmouth, which were first put on sale in Washington and at Redbank and Freehold, N. J., the postoffices nearest the scene of the battle. Later they were allotted to postoffices throughout the country on request.

"Considerable dissatisfaction," says a Cleveland writer, "arose among collectors over the fact that a surcharged issue was printed instead of a special issue with an appropriate picture. The surcharged stamps were snapped up, nevertheless."

It's a shame that the government should treat stamp collectors so shabbily, when all it had to do to give joy to them was to get out new drawings and new plates. What are a few thousands of the public's money compared with the happiness of the stamp collector?

HASKIN DAILY LETTER

By Frederick J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 8.—A new campaign in the war department of agriculture against insects is in full swing. How many millions of dollars of damage have been caused by insect pests it is impossible to estimate, but any estimate shows a fabulous loss. Losses due to the cotton boll weevil are but a single instance and these would be large enough to pay off a good share of the national debt. This newest campaign is being waged against the sugar beet leafhopper, sometimes called the white fly.

The value of the annual sugar beet crop of the United States averages around $50,000,000. This is the sugar value. Tops are made into a pulp used for cattle feed which adds further millions to the total worth of the crop. While about 1,000,000 tons of sugar beets are produced in this country annually, domestic production of cane sugar is only around 300,000 tons.

The ravages of the beet leafhopper have become so great that the department of agriculture recognized a danger that the industry may be wiped out. With funds especially provided by congress, it is making every effort to check the spread of the insect and, to this end, has the cooperation of the state authorities in the affected states as well as that of the growers and factory owners. All available scientific knowledge is being brought to bear to save this $50,000,000 industry.

The sugar beet is not an edible vegetable such as the cucumber red beet, but it has a high sugar content. The sugar beet was first developed in Europe, and France and Germany annually produce a large tonnage. It first was introduced in this country at Alvarado in California in 1879, but little progress was made in creating a paying industry until 1890. Since that date there has been a steady expansion of the industry until now it is established in the Pacific coast states, the Rocky Mountain states south of Montana, and the Plains states from Nebraska to the Gulf of Mexico. Sugar beets also are grown in Michigan and Ohio.

The sugar beet leafhopper is a creature of mystery and has habits which have baffled the attempts to control it. It is believed that the insect was native in the West before the introduction of the sugar beet and that it lived on weeds botanically connected with the beet family. It does not attack all plants indiscriminately but preys only on the vegetable growths which have the same general botanical classification as the beet.

In spite of all the experimental and research work done, the ways of the leafhopper remain obscure. It has been definitely established that the insect itself does not destroy the sugar beet by feeding upon it. What it does do is infect the beet with a disease after first becoming infected itself.

The leafhopper can not successfully be fought by poisonous sprays. It belongs to the type of insect which inserts a sharp beak into the sap veins of the leaf and draws the inner juices. Its beak is sufficiently hard so that contact with a poisoned leaf surface does not affect it. The only way in which a poisonous spray may be made effective is to saturate the plants so thoroughly that the insects will be drenched through. For two reasons this proves difficult. In the first place, the leafhopper is covered with a sort of armor consisting of its folded wings which tend to shed the spray. But more important is the sudden onslaught of the pest.

There have been three widespread attacks previous to the present one. They occurred in 1899-1900; in 1905, and in 1914-1915. Each of these attacks was confined to the Pacific coast states. East of the Rocky mountains outbreaks have occurred in 1903 and 1908. All outbreaks, however, have been confined to the western beet fields. The Michigan, Ohio, and Indiana fields have been exempt.

It has been noted that the leafhopper can not thrive in cool, wet weather, but is a desert insect. Indeed, it is believed that it breeds largely in the desert although eggs in the foliage. Thus it occurs that the heavy losses have been in the arid regions of the West where crops are raised by irrigation. The cool, wet weather of the eastern beet-growing states has kept them immune.

Men in the industry and the scientists working on the problem are very seriously concerned. The great bulk of the sugar now consumed in the United States is imported from abroad and must be paid for. Vast acreages in the country are suitable for the production of sugar beets provided the leafhopper can be checked. With steady expansion of the industry and improvement of manufacturing processes it is conceivable that the United States might become a sugar exporter but first this little flying insect must be conquered.

Q. What is neonicotine? V. C.
A. Owing to the high cost of nicotine as an insecticide, scientists in the Bureau of Chemistry and Soils have evolved neonicotine obtained from crude pyridyl. As a substitute for nicotine it has been found to be even more deadly to insects than natural nicotine.

Q. When was compressed air first used for work in tunnels? L. R.
A. Compressed air was first used in tunnel work by Hersert at Antwerp in 1879 in a small drift with a cast iron lining. In the same year compressed air was used for the first time in any important tunnel by D. C. Haskin in the famous first Hudson river tunnel, New York City, N. Y.

Since Rosalie has given due consideration to each name on her Christmas list it is only natural that she begin to think about the things she'd like to find under the Christmas tree for herself. Then there's the new rope bracelets that come in three colors with carved dangles of semi-precious stones. And the diamond linked wrist watch with a flat, octagon shaped diamond covering the dial in place of the usual crystal. And of course she'd love to have one of the new fur coats with matching ermine with jeweled clasps. Incidentally, Rosalie is wearing a dress with the neckline that harmonizes with the line made by her double strand of pearls.

NEW YORK Day By Day

By O. O. McIntyre.

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—Fourteenth street has been enlivened lately with a merchandising experiment often attended by riots and a call for the gendarmes. On a prominent corner is featured at intervals a sale of $2 million and ladies' suits priced from $5 to $10. The articles have a smart appearance.

Between sales the establishment closes and prepares for the crowds to make noise, as it were. Huge brass rails protect each show window. The street is roped off and strong-armed private huskies bulwark police lines. Before sunup on the day of a sale the surrounding streets are thronged.

Housewives, chiefly from the lower East Side, are there for the scrimmage and enjoy it hugely. The barriers drop when the doors open and the mad rush is on—a screaming mass of elbow-jabbing, shink-kicking and hair-pulling women in a wave of hysterical bargain hunting.

They snatch articles from clerks, slap down their money and flit their way out. Ambulances are in waiting. In some instances the doors have to be locked until the police restore order and then they are opened and another mass attack sets in.
Nothing like it has ever been seen in the town. In the beginning the owner held his sale in a small room in a left building after canvassing the East Side with sales dodgers. The idea caught on, he quickly outgrew his original space and rented an entire ground floor room.

Today he occupies most of the space in a huge building which he now owns, and is said to be a millionaire. His articles are replicas of the current styles of Broadway and the avenue. The profits are necessarily small, but the turn-over is tremendous.

So eager are customers for admission the loafers and jobless from Union square pick up extra change standing in line and giving up their places to prospective buyers for a 25-cent fee.

Broadway has a new how-do-you-do it in a salesroom near the Winter Garden given over to the exposure of motion picture trickery and featuring a screaming slogan: "See How the Camera Lies!" For a 50-cent admission.

YOUR HEALTH
An Ounce of Prevention Is Worth A Pound of Cure.

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland.

Overfeeding is one of the chief causes of a baby's unhappiness. It may protest for a few moments if not permitted to take all the food it thinks it wants. But it is sure to be miserably unhappy for a long time if permitted to take this surplus of food.

The baby's stomach is limited in capacity. It just cannot hold more than a very limited quantity of food. If too much milk is given, the excess is returned through the mouth.

The doctors call this manner of the rejection of food, "regurgitation." That is a big word, isn't it? Regurgitation differs from real vomiting. It is merely a return of the surplus, without sign of pain or illness.
Nature is very alert to the health and welfare of the baby. The stomach is supplied with watchful nerves and strong muscles. On the first sign of overfeeding the good little stomach makes known that it can handle no more food. The regurgitation of the milk is the warning to the mother that baby has had enough.

The mother has more milk than the very young baby needs. This must not be forgotten. As the child grows older and stronger it can take more.
Vomiting is quite a different thing from simple regurgitation. In the latter the milk is returned sweet and normal. In vomiting the ejected material is sour and may be clotted.
True vomiting is accompanied by certain pronounced symptoms indicating real illness. The baby is cold and pale. It may be bathed in a clammy perspiration. Everybody can see it is a sick youngster.

Vomiting does not of necessity indicate stomach trouble. Usually it does, but the infectious or contagious diseases are sometimes introduced by this symptom. Pneumonia and other ailments may begin this way.
In most instances, however, vomiting, especially if the discharged material has a disagreeable odor, is a sign of a disturbed stomach due to improper feeding. On this account the first thing to do in case of vomiting is to stop the food.

It seems a terrible thing to a young mother to deprive her baby of all food, but it can go very well for seven or eight hours without any food whatever. Then barley water can be given.

Always notify your doctor if the baby is seized with vomiting spells. There is something wrong in your method of feeding and you should find out what must be changed to make the feeding exactly right.

Gauging Other People's Necessities.
A research committee in the University of California, department of social economics, has reached the conclusion that a professional man with a wife and two children must have an income of $5,500 a year, in order to make financial ends meet. We are not told whether the committee thought to make due allowance for a separate pair of suspenders for each pair of pants, or not. If not, the report should be referred back to the committee for necessary revision.

We do not know, either, whether California professional men with wives and two children have yet learned what one of our modern high-powered salesmen told the forum lunchers of the Columbus Chamber of Commerce two or three years ago—that no properly attired gentleman can get along without a new pair of garters every three weeks. If the news of this necessity is still to break over the Rock mountains, then that supposedly sufficient income of $5,500 will be in for another troublesome boost, or various professional men in California with wives and two children will find themselves short of the necessities of life.

But seriously now, as our old college president used to say when turning a chapel talk from the ridiculous to the sublime, isn't it time that research committees in the social economics departments of our colleges and universities should cease trying to fix the salaries of other people necessary to respectable standards of living? We have never seen such a standard yet, for professional men or any other class. Iting was not reduced to absurdity by the experience of large numbers of people in the class concerned. Until our clothes, our appetites, our pleasures, our illnesses, our dentist's bills, and a dozen other causes of expense can be rigidly standardized, there can be no standardizing of necessary income worth the paper on which it is printed.—Columbus Dispatch.

Cut Down on Expenses.

Many women blame their husbands for not being more aggressive. They think an aggressive quality in the direction of making more money would suit them better.

They make such demands upon their husbands that it is a serious handicap to them.

Thousands of men are held back by their expenses, which are all out of proportion to their income.

They know that these expenses must be met and they dare not risk losing a job by asking for an increase in salary.

The family expense account is often such that every bit of the income must be spent to retain the position held.

Good investments must be turned down, if regular bills are paid.

Harrassed by the nagging contentions of a wife who demands more and more a man cannot put himself in the frame of mind where he is likely to make himself worth more to his employers.

Wives are intended as a help, not a hindrance.
A little aggressive cut in expenses might help.

It would permit the wage earner to get some money ahead and make him more independent.

RUSSIAN VIOLINIST OPENS CIVIC MUSIC SOCIETY SEASON MONDAY

Capacity Crowd Expected to Greet Paul Kochanski at Ceramic Theater.

Capacity crowd is expected to attend the concert which will be given by Paul Kochanski, Russian violinist, at the Ceramic theater Monday night under the auspices of the Civic Music association.

Kochanski begins his sixth successive season in America acknowledged by the most discerning critics as the foremost of the violinists who have come to this country since the war. Unheralded by sensational publicity, this artist from the land of Chopin and Paderewski was at once engaged by the New York Symphony orchestra, when his success was so phenomenal that he made five additional metropolitan appearances, in recitals and as soloist with orchestras, in the following five weeks.

Since then Kochanski's American popularity has been growing by leaps and bounds. He has appeared as soloist with all the leading orchestras of the world, including the New York Symphony, the Philadelphia orchestra, the New York Philharmonic, the Boston, Chicago, Detroit and Cincinnati Symphony orchestras and many others. He has appeared in recital in nearly every state in the union and is this year making his third coast-to-coast tour.

Stravinsky, Szymanowski, Prokofiev and other distinguished composers have paid tribute to his art by writing special violin works for him. Although a pioneer of the best in modern music he never forgets or omits from his programs the great masters of the past.

His aristocratic point of view, his sincerity, dignity, and command of style made a profound impression in his London debut, which he made at the age of nineteen, and these qualities have been distinctions throughout his career. A pupil of Mlynarski and Thomson, he is the possessor of the much coveted Premier Prix. He has been professor in the Conservatories of Music in Petrograd, Warsaw and Kieff, and he has probably made more recital appearances in various parts of the world than any other artist of his years. His popularity in Paris is now in its tenth year, and he has toured France, Germany, Spain, South America and Russia many times.

Amusements

DOLORES DEL RIO IN "RED DANCE"

Scores of the Cossacks who came to this country some months ago to give spectacular riding exhibitions, have found work, eventually, in the pictures.

In "The Red Dance," Raoul Walsh's super production for Fox Films, coming to the Ceramic theater for five days commencing Tuesday, more than 60 were used in many sequences, especially in a Cossack charge, where their spectacular riding is a high light of the picture.

According to Walsh, their presence solved a most difficult problem, that is of authentic costumes.

Every one of the Cossacks had his own uniform and a Russian saddle, something it would have been impossible to get anywhere in the United States.

"The Red Dance" brings to the screen Dolores Del Rio in her most colorful role, that of "Tasia," a Russian peasant girl who later becomes the Red Dancer and revolutionist leader. Charles Farrell plays opposite Miss Del Rio and there is a brilliant supporting cast with close to 1,000 extras utilized.

ALICE JOYCE AT AMERICAN

Alice Joyce, for years one of the most popular actresses in motion pictures, plays the role of "Fanny Garland" in Herbert Brenson's production of "Sorrell and Son" at the American theater next week. Miss Joyce's sympathetic portrayal is declared by Director Brenson to be the finest of her screen career.

Alice Joyce was born and educated in Kansas City, Missouri, and started to make her living as a telephone operator. Her beauty and personality attracted the attention of motion picture executives and she was offered a chance to act with the old Vitagraph company. Although still in her early teens, she soon became a star and an outstanding favorite with fans in several countries.

Redesigned Fours and Sixes Displayed by Ward.

Development of body lines that strike a note of beauty and quality, heretofore found only in cars that sell in the higher price range, is seen in Willys-Overland's announcement of its completely redesigned lines of Whippet four and six cylinder cars, now on display at the Ward Motor Service salesrooms, West Fifth street.

The lowness of the prices on both lines completes the marvel of the achievement.

President John N. Willys, one of the largest automobile manufacturers, now brings high priced car beauty and greater value to the low priced field in addition to presenting a car of proved mechanical excellence. This year.

development follows just two and one-half years after his successful introduction of the original Whippet.

In presenting the new Whippet fours and sixes, Willys says: "When the original Whippet was introduced, designed along lines that entirely revolutionized the light car field, it was predicted that within two years every car manufacturer in the Whippet classification would be forced to adopt the mechanical features first set by the Whippet, or be relegated to the obsolete group. This particularly applied to four wheel brakes.

"That these predictions came to pass in less than two years is history, with other car manufacturers both in the low and higher price fields following the trend set by the Whippet. "And now we present the completely redesigned Whippet fours and sixes, bringing to the low price class for the first time in automotive history high priced car value, beauty and advanced features, in addition to proved mechanical superiority."

Thirty million motor cars are now in the world, or one for every 64 people.

Glasgow's municipal street car lines made a net profit of $2,163.35 last year.

R. F. Prescott Jewelry Store Showing Fine Line for Yule Business; Open Every Night

Savings Promised in Slogan, "Out of the Way,
But Less to Pay"; Famous Freed-Eiseman Radio Sets on Display.

It's "out of the way, but—less to pay," and in these few words, so aptly expressed, R. F. Prescott, proprietor of the Prescott jewelry store in St. Clair avenue, tells in his own way just why the little shop he established only a few years ago has thrived and grown until it has become a recognized factor in its own particular line of business.

The Prescott store is a three-to-four minute walk from the Diamond and no few jewelry purchasers are spending the few extra minutes, Prescott says, to realize savings of dollars in Christmas gift purchases.

There is hardly any Yule gift more expressive of sentiment or more welcome to the receiver than jewelry and at Prescott's there is a complete line of watches, rings, purses, necklaces—everything in fact, and, too, it is now possible to obtain, through Prescott, any model of the famous Freed-Eiseman all electric radio.

The Freed-Eiseman people have been builders of fine radios since broadcasting began—an achievement made possible by public approval.

All the experience gained in the past, as well as the very latest improvements in the radio art, are combined in the new 1929 models.

When you buy a radio you want a instrument that has embodied in it all the perfected accomplishments of modern radio, plus the exclusive engineering achievements of its builder.

The Freed-Eiseman dealer, is a man to be depended upon. He has been chosen because of his proven integrity as a merchant and for his experience which makes for a better understanding of service. He is capable.

His reputation is such that when he sells a Freed-Eiseman radio set it is guaranteed by him as well as by Freed-Eiseman.

At the present time, Prescott has a beautiful console F-9 model with dynamic speaker, on display, and he will be glad to demonstrate at any time.

The Freed-Eiseman is a "jewel" of a set, and it is appropriate that it should be a companion piece to the many fine examples of the jeweler's art in Prescott's line. For instance, the Cyma watch.

The world famous Cyma watch is recognized by the foremost technical authorities of all lands as being one of the most wonderful examples of timekeeping machinery ever made. In buying a watch the name is all-important, far more important than anything else.

A watch is composed of over 100 parts and requires in manufacturing 1,000 or so different processes. These are 1,000 reasons why you should be sure of the watch you buy.

Back of the Cyma watch is Prescott's own guarantee, as well as that of the manufacturers'. It has to make good.

Mr. Prescott announced today that his store will be open until 9 o'clock every night until Christmas for the accommodation of shoppers.

BILLY SUNDAY HITTING TARGET

People who claim that they belong to the big church have a good pastor according to their standards—the devil.

Some people are asinine enough to put in their time wondering where Cain got his wife instead of gathering the treasures within Bible pages, accepting them and finding all of their doubts gradually removed in the resultant growth of faith.

Some liquor men aver they would not be in such a business if church members had not voted for it.

The curse upon the ground as the result of Adam's sin still holds in the weeds and briars abundant upon the earth.

An old colored woman who had never ridden in a train before declared that she saw nothing but four haystacks going the opposite direction. That is the way many people read the Bible. They get out of it just enough to make them controversial or interrogative over inconsequentials in religion.

People are content to lie in the slimy waters of unbelief when by getting down on their knees, accepting Christ and reading the Bible they could stand on solid ground and live in harmony with the ideals of Jesus.

I have no time to penetrate 50 feet of sewage in sex fiction to obtain one scintilla of truth.

Novels are like veal loaf; I do not like either.

If you will do the will of God you will know it.

Don't try to run away from God for you can not do it.

A well trained man never asks what society thinks of him but whether what he proposes is right and then he will do it no matter what the outcome.

Jonah's experience indicates what God will do with any one who will but obey him.

Preachers who are half asleep themselves can not hope to keep awake those who are listening to them.

It is all bunk to say that a whale can not swallow a man for James Barclay, a seaman, some years ago was rescued from the belly of a whale after one and a half days had been utilized in carving the monster before the stomach was penetrated.

When a man pulls a watch in church it is a safe bet that the Lord is gone home.

Bob Ingersoll by his lectures and writings may have sent more people to study the Bible than did Moody by his defense of the book.

Some people have to get into a tight box before they will pray.

If bridge-playing Sunday school teachers who also fox-trot had genuine spiritual experiences they would transform the members of their classes.

Some churches think they should get many new members when what they really need is to make over the old ones in them.

Some churches would go strong if they would but unload many of the Jonahs they have in them.

Dr. Beecher once asked if the church had had good results in a certain meeting. His reply was: "Yes, we turned 42 members in it out."

It is as much the duty of every church member to do personal work as it is for a mother to properly rear her children.

Bootleggers and gamblers can not function in any community without policemen knowing about them unless the latter are not capable.

There is always some rich person or persons in every church who without spirituality try to run it.

There are churches that pay their ministers in dried apples and mouldy bacon.

Most girls of the streets take some kind of dope; they can not continue in the vile company in which they are compelled to associate without some such stimulant.

Some of the most notorious sinners in every town continue to be prominent members of churches.

A DEVICE demonstrated by a New Jersey inventor sets type on a typesetting machine by wire. No hand touches the machine.

This will worry the typesetters, but probably it need not.

When the typesetting machine came in printers thought they were ruined. They make more now than they ever made setting type by hand.

MR. BROUN, known the world over as the recalcitrant stormy petrel of thought, quarrels with President Coolidge because the president speaks of good will between nations, then asks for 15 cruizers.

That's not inconsistent. The other nations know that we can get the 15 cruizers, and 50 if we want them. And that creates "the good will."

BROUN asks, "Is a man who goes out into the world armed only with faith more timid than he who carries weapons?" Of course he is. Look at the rabbit. He carries no weapon, and is more timid than the lion or wolf, that has a mouthful of weapons.

Couzens Gets $989,833.49 Check

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—Senator James Couzens (R) of Michigan today received a check for $989,833.49 from the treasury department as a rebate on his 1919 income taxes.

The former senate committees on temperance and public printing are among the abolished. The committee on organization of state government is a new one. A special committee may be appointed to handle proposed prohibition, or temperance, legislation.

The personnel of the various senate committees may be chosen at a session of the committee on committees here next Thursday. Senator Kumer is expected to be chosen chairman of the finance committee which may meet Christmas week and draft a special appropriation bill to take care of state governmental operation costs until the general appropriations measures are passed late in the session next year.

The new senate committee on education will handle matters which formerly went to the committees on common schools, library and colleges and universities.

JUMPS INTO LAKE BUT WILL LIVE

CLEVELAND, Dec. 8.—A woman who decided to "end it all" and jumped from the E. 9th street pier into two feet of Lake Erie water last night, was in a hospital today, reported recovering.

Crowd collected as the woman stood in the shallow water, screaming. A watchman waded to her, fastened a rope about her waist and the crowd helped him pull her ashore. Domestic difficulties were believed the motive for the suicide attempt.

SUES RAIDER FOR $50,000

Miss Betty Heywood Asks Damages in Lorain Shooting.

CLEVELAND, Dec. 8.—On the same day that Louis Cicco, 26, was reinstated as a member of the Lorain police force, Miss Betty Heywood, 22, of Elyria, whom Cicco shot and wounded, filed suit against him in common pleas court here today asking $50,000 damages.

Other defendants named by Miss Heywood in her suit were Frank Klady, former deputy sheriff, and Walter Knitter, former patrolman, who were stationed with Cicco at a highway bridge in Lorain on the night of Sept. 26, when he fired several shots at an automobile in which Miss Heywood was a passenger; William S. Firestone, Lorain city fireman, who was also at the scene of the shooting; the Central West Casualty company of Cleveland, which provided bond for Cicco, and his fellow officers and B. Firestone, of Lorain.

The latter and Hugh Martin of Lorain, who was also named in the suit, were also bondsmen for Cicco. An officer is required to furnish bond to insure the faithful performance of his duties.

Cicco was ordered reinstated at a meeting of Lorain city officials last night and will resume active duty tonight at 10 o'clock.

The suit filed by Attorney G. O. Farquharson here results from the activities of State Senator George H. Bender who has demanded that the 22-year-old British girl receive damages.

Miss Heywood was shot in the neck when the auto occupied by her father, other relatives and herself, failed to comply with a command to halt from a special dry raiding squad headed by Cicco. The officers were watching for a rum running automobile.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—With a terrific thud that shook the stock market to its foundations, Radio corporation stock crashed 72 points to 326 in a day of hectic selling in Wall Street—the third day of dizzy tobogganing.

More than 100 points have been clipped off of the market value of Radio corporation stock in three days of the most disastrous selling seen in a highly excited market since the middle of June.

Flooding of the market selling orders for the over-ballooned Radio shares found little or no demand for the stock, and by successive stages it was jolted down the line for a sheer drop of 72 points, closing at the bottom.

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—The boom in Radio Corporation stock was brought to an abrupt halt in the stock market today, when a new 40-point drop brought the price down to 328, a drop of nearly 100 points from the peak of the movement.

Puncturing of the Radio bubble was brought about by a deluge of selling orders, based principally on the failure of the directors of the corporation to order a split-up in the shares or to put the stock on a dividend basis at their meeting yesterday.

It was evident, at the top of the opening gong, that something was amiss in the market position in radio.

The first block of stock sold at 361, a drop of 7 points from the previous close.

The next wave of selling swept the stock down to 325, a sheer drop of 43 points for the first half-hour of trading, and of 105 points from the high of the move.

Brokers milled around the radio post, screaming and gesticulating in a wild effort to execute their orders. Radio, which never paid a penny of dividends, ballooned to $120 a share in less than a year.

VIRGINIA DARE WINS COURT SUIT

BUFFALO, N. Y., Dec. 8.—The Virginia Dare Vineyard, Inc., of Pennyan, N. Y., charged with the sale, possession for sale and advertising for sale for a product intended for use in manufacturing intoxicating liquor, stood acquitted today.

After deliberating the case for five hours last night, a federal court jury here returned a verdict of not guilty.

The government showed that the defendant sold a grape concentrate with directions for making wine. Government chemists showed that this concentrate, when the accompanying directions were followed, developed into wine which tested 13.4 percent alcohol.

The defense did not deny the government's contention that they sold grape concentrate with directions for making wine, but contended that section 9 of the Volstead act specifically permits manufacturing wine in the home and therefore the sale of a compound designed for the legal manufacture of wine in the home was not a violation of the law.

POLICE TO NAB GANGSTER GANG

Cleveland Moves to Re-arrest 20 Men Freed on Bond.

CLEVELAND, Dec. 8.—A move for the re-arrest of 20 alleged gangsters from Chicago, New York and St. Louis, who were captured in a raid on a downtown hotel here Wednesday, was begun by authorities today.

The alleged gangsters Thursday obtained their release on bail of $10,000 each, for which property, then said to be worth $400,000, was pledged.

City Manager Hopkins today declared that the property vouchered for the bonds was not worth that amount and that in many cases it was encumbered by mortgages.

The matter is to come up for hearing today before Municipal Chief Justice John Dempsey. One of the alleged gangsters is still in jail, being held for New Jersey authorities where he is said to be wanted for murder.

Police are still speculating as to what caused the gunmen to mobilize here. That their presence had something to do with the corn sugar industry and bootlegging is regarded as certain, since most of the bonds were known to have been supplied by persons interested in the local sugar business.

NAMES HOOVER IN COURT SUIT

Cleveland Seeks to Restrain Oath as President.

CLEVELAND, Dec. 8.—An injunction suit, seeking to restrain Herbert Clark Hoover from taking office as president of the United States, was filed in federal court here today by Gustaf F. Ebding, of Cleveland, who says he is an author and a scientist.

Immediately after filing his suit Ebding was taken to the office of District Attorney A. E. Bernstein and questioned by secret service men.

The petition names Charles Dawes, vice president, as defendant. It asks that Dawes be restrained from receiving the ballot cast for Hoover in the electoral college.

The question of President-elect Hoover's citizenship, which was brought up during the campaign, is the basis of the suit. Ebding points out that Hoover had lived in the United States only nine years prior to his election, while the constitution, he says, requires that a president must have lived in the country 14 years.

Ebding said he supported Al Smith during the campaign.

LOGAN YOUTH ADMITS MURDER

LOGAN, O., Dec. 8.—Ray Featheroff, 19, confessed slayer of Jacob Konehler, 59, a recluse in the hills of Hocking county, was held in jail without bond here today awaiting action of the grand jury, following his plea of guilty to a first degree murder charge lodged against him at his arraignment before Justice of the Peace E. E. Bright yesterday.

The youth presented a forlorn appearance in court, appearing without counsel and with no one accompanying him. No initial examination of the youth will be made until it is determined what his defense will be.

Prosecutor Phil A. Henderson said. Featheroff was arrested Wednesday night and, according to his alleged confession, killed Konehler at the latter's request and while the phonograph in the log cabin home was grinding out the strains of "When the Sun Goes Down."

Greater Beauty, Larger Bodies!

with "FINGER-TIP CONTROL"

the most notable advance in driving convenience since the self-starter

What "Finger-Tip Control" means to you

Greater Convenience: A single button, conveniently located in the center of the steering wheel, controls all functions of starting the motor, operating the lights and sounding the horn.

This fundamental improvement does away with all troublesome foot fumbling for the starting button, a frequent source of annoyance particularly to women drivers. It also avoids changing from the comfortable driving position to reach a light switch on the dash.

Greater Safety: With the new "Finger-Tip Control," you can at all times keep your hands on the wheel and your eyes on the road. An important safety factor, especially when driving at night.

TODAY Willys-Overland presents for public judgment the new superior line of Whippet Fours and Sixes, setting new standards of beauty and comfort for low-priced cars.

Longer bodies, higher radiator and hood, richer colors, heavier one-piece full-crown fenders—all these contribute to the trim, smart appearance that denotes creative genius and superlative mastery of modern design.

Roomier bodies, greater comfort

More spacious interiors in the new Superior Whippet afford added leg room and elbow room. The wider, form-fitting seats are deeply upholstered... all passengers enjoy restful positions.

The longer wheelbase, plus the lengthened springs both front and rear, plus oversize balloon tires, and snubbers—all combine to the perfection of far easier riding under all driving conditions.

Greater power, greater speed

In mechanical improvements the new Superior Whippet advances even over its famous predecessor. The new higher compression engine gives more than 20% added horsepower, resulting in increased speed, faster pick-up and greater hill-climbing ability. A completely redesigned steering gear makes the new Superior Whippet instantly responsive to the lightest touch.

Through these further advances in scientific engineering, dependable performance and minimum operating costs are assured.

Order now for early delivery

See the new Superior Whippet today. An inspection and a demonstration will reveal to you an entirely new standard of dollar-for-dollar value in low-priced automobiles.

Profio-Vivio Will Scrap In Headline Bout At Eagles' Monday

"Nick" Seeks Knockout Over Rival This Time

Old Foes Fought to Draw in First Meeting Here: Both in Great Trim for Finish Affair.

Johnny Vivio, the Pittsburgh Northsider, and the only welter in the Smoky City district who has met Dominick Profio, the Circle, Pa., slugging sensation, and stayed on both feet while he was in the same ring with Profio, will try to repeat the performance when the pair meet again Monday night in the Eagles' ring here. They are featured in the eight-round wind-up scuffle.

Vivio, it is recalled, substituted for Walter O'Keefe against Profio in that other battle they had here and the fact that he earned a draw with the puncher is something to the credit of the Northsider.

Reed Brown, Profio's manager, is authority for the statement that Profio has either knocked out or at least floored once or twice every boy with whom he has tangled since leaving the amateur ranks where he was a real sensation, his path being strewn with knockouts.

In their other fight here, it appeared that Profio wanted to box with Vivio and that was bad medicine for the boy from Circle, especially with a lad of the type of Vivio, who is a shifty, crafty ringster and, at the same time, possessing enough punch, if it connects, to lay away an opponent with ease and dispatch.

As a result of his efforts to substitute a style with which he was certainly unfamiliar, Profio caught one on the snout in the first round—his first time on the canvas, by the way—and the unexpectedness of the wallop, rather than its effect, temporarily slowed him down. Profio is hard as nails, trained to the split second and can stand a lot of walloping.

Vivio, by obliging Matchmaker Tom McDonough in accepting the Profio bout here last time, got a 30-day suspension from the Pennsylvania boxing commission.

Vivio was matched with George Peck in a semi-final in McKeesport on Thursday night of the same week he fought here. It is a rule that Keystone state boxers can work only once in a period of five days. As a result, Vivio was unable to appear in McKeesport, where he held a prior contract.

The Profio-Vivio battle will provide a fitting climax to a card that should be replete with action all the way, especially in the six-round semi-final on which spot Harry Morris, Steubenville, and Johnny Pollock, Youngstown, are billed.

Pedal Pushers Nearing End Of Long Grind

Georgetti-Spencer and Brocardo-Letourner Teams Lead.

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—First prize in the six-day bike race at Madison Square Garden apparently will be won either by the Italian-American team of Franco Georgetti and Freddy Spencer or by the Frenchmen, Letourner and Brocardo.

When the riders reduced their mad pace around the pine boards at four o'clock this morning, conserving their strength for the finale of the marathon tonight, Georgetti and Spencer led the Frenchmen by one lap, with four other teams tied for third place, three laps behind the second-place outfit. A high total of 232 points gave the leaders a further advantage in case of a tie.

The teams tied for third place were the Linari-Belloni, Zucchini-Negrini, McNamara-Van Nek and Walthour-Deniberg combinations. One team, the Blanchonnet-Cugnot Duo, was so far in the rack this morning that it was withdrawn.

The two leading teams maintained their relative positions throughout the night, while the others fell behind. A new record of 500 stolen laps for the grand was predicted. The old mark of 429 was passed at 10:12 o'clock last night.

At four o'clock this morning the leaders had pedaled 2,018 miles, 9 laps.

AT ERIE, Pa.:—Bucky Lawless, of Syracuse, N. Y., won from Canada Lee, New York, on foul, 3.

Sunday Baseball Prompts "Good Samaritan" Move.

By Davis J. Walsh.
TORONTO, Dec. 8.—There is something strangely credible about the story today that major league baseball, out of the largeness of its great big bucket of a heart, means to toss a few alms to the city of Boston.

"Help" Boston, was the last, lingering echo in the corridors as the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues took its unannounced way out of here.

The answer? Sunday baseball. The good citizens of Massachusetts put the law on the books at the last election and now fourteen American and National league clubs are in some haste to do something about it. Not now are they one to deny a friend in distress. They will help Boston, even if it means the discomfort of a crowded ball park on Sunday. It is sacrifices like this that restores one's faith in the basic goodness of all humanity.

Whether anything concrete was done in the matter while the convention was prattling idly through the days, I can't say. It generally is admitted, however, that the Yankees closed a deal with the Red Sox during the meeting and since the "help Boston" thing was revived here at the instigation of Miller Huggins, possibly the fans at Fenway park have something coming to them, even if it only turns out to be the day after tomorrow.

Boston being the baseball town it is, the major leagues have been somewhat uneasy for several years over the state of affairs there. There has been something of a contest on between the two leagues to get the break on the other with a winning ball club. With the Sunday baseball patronage as an added prize, this may cease to be a contest and become a plain, every-day fight.

WOOSTER PILOT UNABLE TO PLAY

WOOSTER, O. Dec. 8.—With Captain Miles Beeler unable to report for practice because of injuries, Wooster college's basketball squad is prepping daily for the opening game of the season Saturday with Goodyear at Akron.

Beeler sustained an injury to his knee during football practice and may be kept out of basketball the greater part, if not the entire season.

Walter Sage of Marion, Al McConille of Loran, and Paul Hudson of Nelsonville are being prepped for Beeler's guard position.

Britain's September coal exports were 12,588,265 less than in September, 1927.

MANUSH LOSES PLAYER AWARD BUT GETS LITTLE GIFT OF TWO GRAND

ST. LOUIS BROWNS' OUTFIELDER, WHO FINISHED SECOND IN THE AMERICAN LEAGUE BATTING RACE AND WHO LOST THE MOST VALUABLE PLAYER AWARD IN THE JUNIOR CIRCUIT BY TWO POINTS.

WHEN the commission of baseball writers named Mickey Cochrane, catcher of the Philadelphia Athletics, the most valuable player to his club in the American League's 1928 season, Heinie Manush, outfielder of the St. Louis Browns, finished second.

Now second in such an event—especially when it is separated from first by a margin of only two points, as it was in the case of Manush—is nothing to be sneezed at. Being chosen second is quite an honor in itself, but it doesn't get your name inscribed on any roll of honor nor does it win the thousand-dollar pin money which goes with the award.

But Heinie is accustomed to finishing second having ended the season in that position when it came to the batting honors in the junior circuit and so Heinie took the valuable player award philosophically and may have even sent a telegram of congratulation to Mickey.

Manush polled sixteen votes two years ago when he led the league in batting but last year he didn't get a vote so he may not have been expecting anything this year, thinking that the boys had forgotten all about him. But he did finish second with a total of 51 votes and there was a tie for third place between first baseman Joe Judge, of Washington, and second baseman Tony Lazzeri, of New York. A lot of other players got votes with the Sewell brothers, Joe and Luke, of Cleveland, finishing in a tie for last place with six counters each.

But if Manush took the loss of the award as just another one of those things—like his finish in the American League batting race—Owner Phil Ball, of the Browns, didn't like the decision one bit and was not backward in saying that undoubtedly, Heinie Manush was the most valuable player to his team of any player in one of the tightest races in the history of baseball by the width of an

Dr. Wilce O.S.U. Day Speaker

Extends Best Wishes to His Successor as Coach.

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 8.—"We have said to the teams—train, prepare, work hard, play as a team, fight through the last second, no matter how the game may go, fight cleanly, like real sportsmen. Play to win, but if you can't win without breaking the rules, lose like a gentleman."

Throughout the nation, Ohio State university alumni who heard last night, through a country-wide radio hookup, the "Swan song" of Dr. John W. Wilce today acclaimed the address of the famed gridiron mentor, in which he acknowledged "Gratefully" the co-operation he said had been given him on all sides, and declared, "I have only the best of wishes for the new coach."

Wilce's speech was one of two principal addresses featuring the national observance of "Ohio State Day." The other was made by Dr. W. O. Thompson, president emeritus of the university, who spoke in the absence of president G. W. Rightmire, who is ill.

Pointing out that all types of institutions, teams and coaches have been beaten, Dr. Wilce declared he had reached the conclusion that "It's a great sport with no one perfect—No, not one."

Touching on the 1928 squad, his last, he commented: "This year's team with a new ideal American in Fessler is a final illustration of a group of splendid college boys playing some great football."

"The alumni of Ohio State university," Dr. Thompson said, "have taken a creditable and honorable place in the citizenship of the country and in professional life. Ohio State has always been rather modest in the proclamation of its ideals, but now other people are continually affirming that Ohio State has taken its proper place among the notable educational institutions of the country."

auburn hair. Beaten but not disgraced.

In the valuable player award he may have been beaten, but he looks to be the winner if he signs a new contract with the Browns, and he's apt not to do that as the Mississippi is to start flowing north.

A BRAND NEW PONTIAC IS COMING!

IN KEEPING with its policy of progress, Oakland has for months been working on a new Pontiac Six. It is more than a refinement of its famous predecessors. It is essentially a brand new car from beginning to end.

Details will be announced later. But this much can be said now. This new Pontiac will represent an even greater innovation today than the first Pontiac represented in 1926! Without departing from the low-price field, it will bring to this field fine-car elements of style, performance and luxury never before provided in a car so inexpensive to buy!

Thrilling story of love of two girls for the same man

By HAZEL LIVINGSTON

And carrying the hot coffee up to Flora's room she said, "Do you know, Flora, I don't believe I'd move even if I could afford to now! I'd sort of hate to go away from Mama Hinkle, and Viola—"

Flora grimaced—"Sure—good as gold. Still it wouldn't take me long to pack if I had any place better to go. You're too soft hearted Daphne. Here, you help yourself to the potato salad, while I warm up the meat pie. . . I could live without light-housekeeping myself. . . I wouldn't mind having an apartment like the Garroty girl has. . ."

"Crystal! You know where she lives, Flora?" The fork flew out of Daphne's hand, clattered to the floor.

"Yes, I know," Flora said harshly. "I know a lot."

"But Flora, you don't know Crystal!"

"No, I don't know Crystal, but I had a good look at her, and I know her kind. Saw her coming out of the apartment when I was going into the building to see some society dame that lives there—it's that kind of a place—"

"Crystal always had everything nice. Father always gave—"

"I'll bet it isn't Father that's paying the rent there—"

Daphne was on her feet, her cheeks flaming. "Flora McCordle if you mean that Ralph—that Ralph—is—!" She floundered, lost for the right words.

"I don't mean anything, 'cause I don't know anything," Flora cut in gently, her heart aching for Daphne, "but just the same I'll bet McKevitt is in deeper than we thought, and I wouldn't waste any more time on him, honey. I said I'd help you, but it's hopeless. At least it is for you. Some other girl like Crystal might get him—some schemer—"

When Daphne didn't answer, she went on warmly. "He's twitting you. I see him around town all the time with the Garroty girl. He only comes up here, when he hasn't anything else to do, and you pretty near break a leg running to answer the door bell. That's no way to handle a fellow like that!"

Daphne hung her head. She said, so low that Flora could hardly hear her, "You think—I run after him?"

"No, not exactly. You're too slow to run after anybody. But you make it clear that all he has to do is whistle. Get interested in somebody else. That Allan Winters for instance. You mark my words, he's going to amount to something, and he was interested in you. What did you do to scare him away?"

"I didn't do anything. He wasn't interested, Flora."

"Well then, I'll find you one. I'll give you the pick of my collection, that's the kind of a friend I am. You come down to the office with me tonight, some of the late shift will be there. I'll introduce you to Stew Bromley—he's too young for me—and when you meet a few regular fellows you won't get so upset by the first. . . Is that the phone do you think?"

But before the words were out of her mouth, Daphne was half way down the stairs, grabbing the receiver from the hook.

Flora sighed and ate the last bit of meat pie, licking the gravy from a greasy finger.

T Daphne's face, flushed and starry-eyed, was in the door for a fleeting moment. "It was Ralph—you will excuse me, won't you, Flora? And Flora, I know you mean to help me, but I know you're wrong, and anyway he's coming, and Flora, I'm going to ask him!"

No—anything but that! Flora screamed.

But Daphne had gone, and though Mrs. Haliday and Mrs. Spellman listened for fifteen minutes, ears glued to cracks, Flora didn't say another word, and you couldn't tell whether the little Haines girl was going to listen to reason or not.

CHAPTER 34.

For three hours she had been nerv'ing herself to it, trying different ways of saying it, over in her mind. "I saw Crystal the other day!"—but that was a queer way to start—and "I wonder where Crystal is now," was just as funny, and it wasn't true either. . .

"You're awful quiet tonight!" she laughed, and she blushed, and said "Am I?" and couldn't think of anything else to say, and they drove on, still silently. They'd soon be home now, and she'd have to hurry, if it were ever to be said. . .

"You know I get awfully sick of taxiing you around this way," he said, still bantering. "Just like a couple of home-less bums. Not even a kitchen to hold hands in. Not even—"

"You mean . . . you don't like to take me riding?"

"Of course I like to take you riding, but hang it, I like to park once in a while when I'm with a pretty girl—"

A pretty girl! Was that all she was to him, a pretty girl? Was that what Flora meant? She gulped. "We don't ride all the time. We do park sometimes—"

He stopped the car, and kissed her, laughing all the while. "You'll be the death of me yet! When are you going to grow up? Never mind, that's one of the reasons I'm so crazy about you. I am crazy about you. Do you know that, Daphne?"

But for once she didn't thrill to his nearness, her heart was too heavy. Pretty girl . . . parking . . . petting. . . Crystal. . . All the troubled thoughts shifted and dandered about, forming kaleidoscope patterns of misery in her mind. . . He meant it wasn't any fun coming to her house to call for, and driving aimlessly around. . . He didn't have to taxi Crystal around, Crystal had a place to bring him, a place. . .

"I'm sorry I haven't a wonderful place like Crystal's!" she burst out bitterly, and could have bitten her tongue. Thinking about it all evening, and then saying it that way!

But he didn't notice the bitterness. "Pretty nice, all right," he agreed warmly. "I like a place like that, it's kind of homey with all those nice comfortable chairs. That's what I said the first time I saw it. None of those antique effects for me. . . say—I didn't know you two kids had gotten together! What do you know about that?"

"We haven't."

"You haven't? Then how did you—I mean how did you know all about her place? I thought it was funny she didn't say anything about meeting you. You know how Crystal is, right out with everything—no holding anything back—"

"You didn't say anything either!" she said recusingly.

"You never told me you were seeing her all the time. I—I just happened to find out, that's all!"

In the flash of a street lamp he saw her tense white face, and thought with amusement, "The kid's jealous!" So he said, humoring her, "You told me not to tell the folks you were in town, so I haven't said a word. Well—nature—! I kept Crystal's little secret too. She's here at art school, pretty near killing herself. They work 'em like dogs there, and it's a shame too. Night and day. It isn't right. You know she isn't strong either."

"Crystal not strong? You know she isn't strong either. I wish you'd let me tell her you're here. She's lonely I think, and nervous. You know how keen she is on that art of hers. And then her mother—, you don't mind if I knock the old lady a little, Daphne?"

"I don't like her, either," Daphne said honestly.

"Well, it seems that the old lady keeps writing Crystal all the time, telling her how hard up they are—"

"Hard up!"

"Yes, short of money. I didn't believe it at first, but I ran into a fellow at the bank the other day who was talking about some orchard land in that district. Seems that your father has borrowed a lot on it. I don't want to alarm you, Daphne, but from what I hear he's going to lose the property. Say, what's wrong with him, anyway? When I was a kid people used to hold him up as an example of thrift—Abner Haines that had three cents out of the first nickel he ever made, and then all of a sudden he kind of went haywire—began spending money like a drunken sailor—"

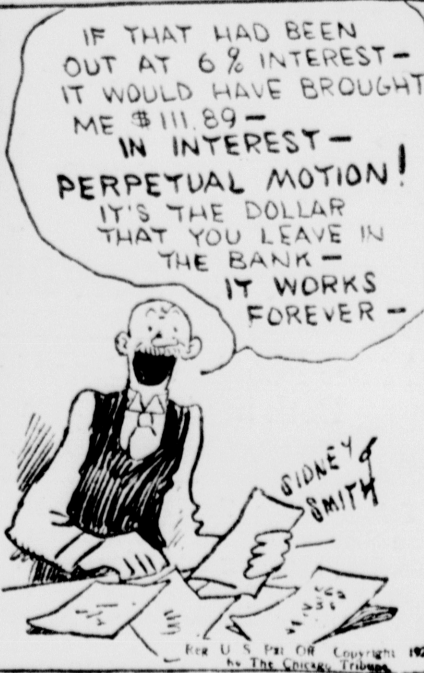

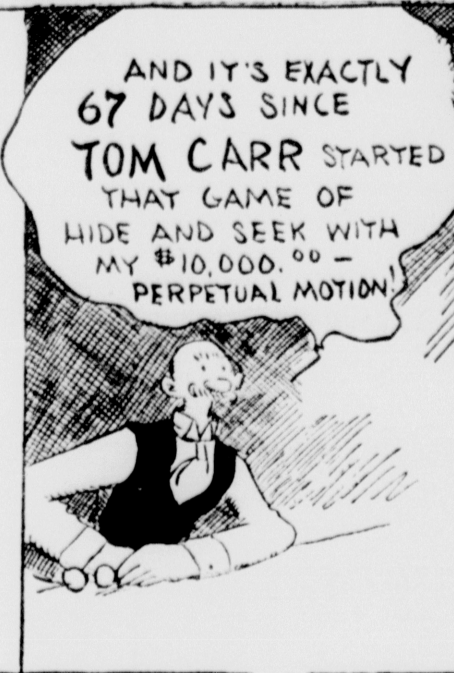

"He spent it on my stepmother," Daphne said hoily.

"She never gave him a minute's peace, she was right after him every minute, she—"

She stopped, frightened at what she had almost said about Crystal. . . you can't tell things like that, and still if you don't. . .

Owners Endorse Four Speed Performance

Owners, after many months experience with the Graham-Paige four speed transmission, enthusiastically endorse its performance. Fourth, used most of the time, gives a new smoothness and swiftness—third, a quiet internal gear, provides rapid acceleration in traffic, and up steep hills. The gear shift is standard. You start in second—first, in reserve, is seldom used. A six or eight is at your disposal.
